

A CALL ISSUED

By the Board of Control Washington County Burley Growers Co. For Meeting Here Next Monday.

TO THE GROWERS OF BURLEY TOBACCO IN WASHINGTON COUNTY: Every grower of Burley tobacco in Washington County is requested to meet at the Court House in Springfield, Ky., at one o'clock P. M. Feb. 27th, 1905, that they may in Mass Convention determine what course shall be taken in view of the recent action of the Tobacco Trust and other allied interests of the money power in New York to defeat the purpose of the Burley Tobacco Growers Company.

This is a serious condition which confronts us, and by which every one who is interested in growing Burley Tobacco is affected, not only as to the crop of 1904 but as to the tobacco which may grow in the future. If we surrender now we will be at the mercy of the Tobacco Trust for all time to come. We urge that every grower in Washington County attend the meeting.

W. A. CLEMENTS,
H. R. THOMPSON,
C. A. BRADY,
Board of Control of Washington County.

We have talked to quite a number of farmers during the past few days in regard to pushing the fight for the Burley Tobacco Growers Co. and every one of them expressed their determination to continue the work toward organization. They say the fight must be carried on to next year, and while all expressed themselves as being disappointed in the way matters terminated this season, they believe that the Burley Growers Co. will meet with success next year.

Every tobacco grower of Washington county is aware of the causes which brought about the collapse of the Burley Co., consequently they are acquainted with the fact that a stubborn fight is ahead of them. The powers which the burley tobacco growers must combat are backed up, not alone by the millions of the tobacco trust, but by those of John Rockefeller and other magnates of Wall Street, New York. But the farmers are mightier than these whose gains or ill-gotten, because they must become the customer of the farmer. They must either buy his tobacco or close up shop.

It would be suicidal to give up the fight at this time, and instead of lagging or flickering the farmers of the burley district will no doubt get into the struggle again with renewed life and determination.

Death of Miss Vanardale.

Miss Ardis Vanardale, died at the home of her parents at Litsy Monday at 12 o'clock, after a brief illness of typhoid pneumonia. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Vanardale and was twenty-two years of age. She was a devout and consistent member of the Presbyterian church. She was kind and affectionate, charitable toward all, and when death kissed down her eyelids a beautiful soul winged its way to God's Eternal Courts. Miss Vanardale was a sister of Messrs P. M. and James Noe, of this place.

Notice Teachers.

The following letter, which has been received by School Superintendent J. W. Bush from State Superintendent Jas. H. Fuqua, sr., will be of interest to the teachers of Washington county: February 15, 1905.

Dear Sir:—I find the impression is prevalent that the State Treasurer is blamed for the failure to pay the teachers last week. No blame attaches to him. I learn there was not sufficient money in the treasury to the credit of the school fund to pay the February drafts, and Mr. Bosworth did not feel warranted in borrowing it from the sinking fund without the consent of the Commissioners. He has their consent now, and will send out the drafts the last of this week.

The treasurer is conscientious in the discharge of his duties, and it gives me pleasure to bear this testimony. I ask you to explain the situation to your teachers and remove all blame from Mr. Bosworth.

Yours very truly,

JAS. H. FUQUA, SR.

Judge Hopson.

In this issue of The Sun will be found an article from The Marion Falcon setting forth the work done by Appellate Judge J. P. Hopson, to which we desire to call the attention of our readers. Judge Hopson will be a candidate for reelection by the people of every section of Kentucky. Judge Hopson is a gentleman of the old school, and a man whose warmest personal friends are those who have known him longest. Read the article from the Falcon on another page, and with a brief outline of the work Judge Hopson has done for the State since he has presided as one of the judges of Kentucky's highest court.

Circuit Court.

The regular February term of the Washington Circuit Court convenes next Monday. The docket is small and it is not thought that the term will continue over two weeks. On the docket are 95 Commonwealth cases, 15 of which are felony charges, the remainder being misdemeanors; 84 old common law cases and four appeals; 91 old equity cases and 15 appearances. Judge Thurman will be on the bench.

Death of Miss Settles.

Miss Addie Settles, aged thirteen years, died at the home of her parents Sunday morning of typhoid pneumonia, and her body was interred in the Hillsboro cemetery on Monday. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Settles and was exceptionally bright young lady. She had been sick but a short time and was not considered dangerously ill until a few days before her death. Many friends extend sympathy to the bereaved parents.

Death of A Child.

James Henry Eubanks, a little son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Eubanks, of this place, died at his home Sunday night of lung trouble, after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. Williams, after which the remains were buried in the cemetery at this place. The little boy was liked by all who knew him and was a bright and many little fellow. To his sorrowing parents many friends extend condolence.

Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks desire to thank all who so kindly assisted during the illness of their son, and assure them that these kindnesses will be remembered.

BROOKSVILLE.

Joe Noel, Hellum Keeling and Misses Lula Pinkston and Jessie Noel spent Sunday with the Misses Armstrong. We have been without a blacksmith for quite a while, but glad to report we have one now.

Miss Hattie Settle was the pleasant guest of Miss Hester Noel Sunday. Jim Wilson and Hellum Keeling attended a party at Hillsboro Saturday night given by Lucien Pinkston.

Felix Noel and daughter, Miss Jessie, spent Sunday with A. C. Pinkston. Durdon Pinkston, of Hillsboro, visited his parents Sunday. Turner Colvin entertained his many friends Friday night.

JOHANN HOCK.

He is credited by the police of Chicago and New York with having married more than 30 women, and is believed to have poisoned some of them.

LAWSON MAY AID

Burley Tobacco Growers' Company—Will Put Up His Own Money, Besides Interesting Others.

(Tuesday's Courier-Journal.)

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 20.—Through the aid of Thomas W. Lawson, arch-enemy of the Standard Oil, the deal by the Growers' Association to corner the white Burley market may still, it is thought, be consummated.

If it is, Cincinnati will become the battleground of the most spectacular struggle of modern times between financial giants.

Archibald Stewart, representative of the association, was in conference for three days last week, it develops, with Lawson in Boston, and it is understood among the Cincinnati tobacco men that Lawson decided to aid the tobacco growers. Stewart also has been in Washington consulting with moneyed men. They were interested in the deal, it is understood, by Lawson.

Lawson, it is stated, has agreed to put his own money into the scheme, besides working up the plan with Stewart among men to whose millions his fight on Standard Oil gives Lawson access. If everything goes right there is a possibility of Lawson coming to Cincinnati to help direct the fight.

News of his trip to confer with Lawson was given by Stewart in a message to his family. It explains his prolonged stay in New York, after it looked as if the tobacco trust had blocked all avenues to getting the necessary $10,000,000 to carry out the corner on the Burley crop.

Stewart has sent word to Cincinnati that if he can have a few days more to work, he feels confident of financing the deal.

An Unusual Occurrence.

Mattie Walker, a colored girl, died at her home in Springfield last Saturday, and when some of her friends went to the telephone to call up her brother, who was living in Indianapolis to inform him of his sister's death, a party in that city was in the telephone office for the purpose of telephoning her that her brother had just died. Arrangements were made for a double burial but the body of the deceased girl's brother did not arrive in Springfield until Monday, and it was found necessary to bury the sister on Sunday. It is said that the party in Indianapolis told of the death of the girl Walker before the car in Springfield could announce the death of the girl.

Afraid of Strong Medicines.

Many people suffer for years from rheumatic pains, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually given for rheumatism, not knowing that quick relief from pain may be had simply by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm and without taking any medicine internally. For sale by C. J. Haydon.

Death of Paul Booker.

Mr. Paul J. Booker died at Norton Infirmary, Louisville, this morning after an illness of several weeks of stomach trouble. He was a son of the late Judge Paul J. Booker, and is survived by one sister, Mrs. J. M. Robinson, of Louisville. No man was better known in the county; none with more friends. He was a high-toned gentleman in every respect; quick to acknowledge a favor; equally as quick to resent a wrong. His many friends will learn with regret of his death. The remains will be brought here to-morrow afternoon and interred on cemetery hill.

An Advertising Thought.

It takes time, repetition and common sense arguments to make people believe in buying your goods and come back for more. Too many advertisers empty their appropriation and boxes on the first grade, and the road to advertising success is strewn with the bleaching skeletons of the victims of one insertion. John Wanamaker once said: "To discontinue advertising is like taking down your sign."

You have a sign above your door to let people know who you are and what you are doing. That's what your advertising does. It merely multiplies your sign. It lets thousands of people know what you have to sell—M. L. Corey, Secretary National Retail Hardware Dealers' Association.

CARDWELL.

E. Perkins and family visited at Battle the first of the week. Miss Etta Littrell, of Battle, spent the week with Miss Lola Gardner.

E. T. Perkins sold to W. L. Graham a cow for $25.

Miss Lydia Royalty and daughter, Mrs. Nannie, spent several days at Kirkwood this week.

Mr. Floris Lay, of this place, was married to Miss Eva Turner, of Mackville, Feb. 16. May their days be long and happy.

Miss Lydia Randall, of Bohon, is visiting Miss Nannie Royalty this week.

A good crowd attended the J. I. Holiday sale and the following prices were realized: 1 eight-year-old horse, $88; 1 brood mare, $44; 1 cow, $27.50; 15 head young sheep, $5.50 per head. Household and kitchen furniture sold well. The farm was withdrawn.

John Taylor sold 84 acres of land to S. P. Casey for $800. James Divine sold to some party a tract of land supposed to contain 10 acres, for $160.

The young folks had quite a nice time at the social given by Miss Lola Gardner. Those from a distance were Misses Nora McMullen and sister and sisters Taylor and sister, of Jenkinsville. Music was furnished by the Cardwell string-band.

Aunt Mariah Hendren, who sprained her wrist last week by falling on the ice, is getting along nicely at present. Rudie Yung and family visited at the home of W. H. Lay this week.

Rev. H. P. Hatchett visited at the home of Rev. Bruner Friday night.

We expect to report a wedding next week. Guess who.

Deaths in Marion.

(Lebanon Falcon.)

The community of St. Mary's was greatly shocked Thursday morning, when it was announced that Mr. Paul Warren had died of paralysis at 8 o'clock. Mr. Warren had been at work in the blacksmith shop of Mr. J. B. DeNardi and after finishing his work Wednesday he went to the station, where he was boasting of feeling better than for a long time. He went on to his home and about 9 o'clock that evening while playing with his children, he suddenly fell from his chair to the floor, and remained unconscious until his death the following morning. Deceased was an industrious young man who enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him. He was 30 years old and leaves a wife and four small children.

TATHAM SPRINGS.

We are having a very severe in this section. The ice on Chaplin river is 7 inches thick, while the Glen's creek flow has been blocked with ice for two weeks, and is almost impassable.

A Tailor-Made Suit.... For Same Money

The above lines are not a waste of words. They mean that a tailor-made suit of clothes will cost you no more than a ready-made suit---and out of better cloth.

NEW STYLES AND SAMPLES

A new, complete and up-to-date line of samples in the Clothing line has just been received from WANNAMAKER & BROWN, the greatest clothiers in America. This firm's reputation for putting nothing but the best on the market is firmly established. They make clothes for Presidents, Senators and Congressmen; they make clothes for thousands and thousands of people throughout the United States. They have built up a trade upon these three points:--

DURABILITY OF GOODS, FINE WORKMANSHIP, PERFECT FITS.

NEW STYLES AND SAMPLES

Don't buy until you have seen my line of samples and get my prices. Keep these facts in mind: "You can get better clothes for the same money, or the same clothes for less money," by buying from me than you can by buying a suit from other people. And remember,

THIRTEEN IN STATE

Under Sentence of Death—Five
the Number In the Louisville Jail.

(Franklin Favorite.)

Thirteen men are under the shadow of the gallows within the borders of Kentucky. Some of them have exhausted every chance for life and are calmly awaiting execution day, which already has been fixed, while others are yet struggling with fate in attempts to escape the extreme penalty of death. Five of the number who juries have said are guilty of murder and must pay the penalty with their own lives are incarcerated in the Jefferson county jail, while the remaining ones are scattered over the State.

Those in the Jefferson county prison are: Caleb Powers, convicted of complicity in the murder of Gov. William Goebel; his case has been remanded for a new trial; Wm. Van Dusen, convicted of the murder of Fannie Porter, his mistress; case pending for action by the Court of Appeals; George Warner, murderer of Pulaski Leads, conviction affirmed; Jacob Bischoff, for the brutal murder of his wife, case pending in Court of Appeals; James Thomas and Edward Brown, negroes, convicted of wife murder. John and Ed Taylor and James Smith, negroes, convicted of the murder of a white man, are awaiting execution in the Fayette county jail at Lexington; Tom White, convicted murderer of Thomas Marcum, is awaiting execution in the Covington jail; Roy Green and James Coomes, negroes, are under sentence of death in the Owensboro jail, Green for killing a white man, and Coomes for the murder of his wife. Four negroes are in the Hopkinsville jail awaiting execution for the murder of an unknown white man a year ago. Three of these have their cases pending before the Court of Appeals, while George Holland's case was affirmed and he is to hang July 6. This is said to be the largest number of men ever under sentence of death at one time in this State. In addition the number of legal hangings in recent months has been far above the average in Kentucky.

Poem By "Jack" Wills.

The author of the following poem, John Wills, was a lawyer, located at Lawrenceburg, Anderson county, Ky. At the beginning of the war of 1861-5, he went South with a company from his county and continued in the Rebel army during those four terrible years. After the war, being located at Lawrenceburg and a brother-in-law of Judge Kavanaugh, he thought he ought to be commonwealth's attorney. But under the provisions of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution he could not offer for office. So he wrote the poem and sent it to Hon. J. Proctor Knott, then representative from this Fourth District of Kentucky. Mr. Knott at the proper time sent it to the clerk of the House who read it in fine style. It is said B. F. Butler arose in his place and said: "If this bill to relieve that man is not passed I will label this Union." And the bill was immediately passed.

Dear Knott: I thought, as I had time,
I'd write to you and Beck, in rhyme,
A span's length, yet or more, from hell,
As these few lines will surely tell,
I also send petition signed
By loyal men who were so kind
As to endorse and recommend
Par clemency your wayward friend,
Please put it through and thus relieve
A Rebel who past sins doth grieve;
And you may tell such friendly Rad,
That though I was a Rebel bad,
My penitence is deep and true,
More than I dare express to you.
When depths, Judge of Israel fought
The Ammonitish hosts, and sought
To pray the aid of Israel's God
To drown his foes in their own blood,
He made a vow he "had not oghter"
And thereby lost his only daughter.
This vow I'm sure old Jop represented
Until he felt almost demerited.
If all of holy writ be true,
Old Pharaoh did the Jew pursue
With numerous hosts intent on slaughter
Until he got neck deep in water;
His soul, no doubt before he drowned,
Was filled with penitence profound,
Who felt repentance ere they died,
But few have felt such deep contrition
As he who sends you this petition.
Some of their crimes are thrown in prison
And some get ropes round their "wizens";
Some after death are punished sore
Who never got their dues before;
But he who, with a sorry band,
Stirs up rebellion in the land,
Against the best government under the sun
And fails in his purpose, is forever undone,
No prison for him! Let no gallows be built!
And red ocean of hell is too mild for his guilt!
That pit of perdition where the devil
And his kith
Are weeping and wailing and gnashing their teeth
Is too full of pleasure! Let's unravel

some new plan
To punish and torture his rebellious chad!
Thus our law-makers said, and with evil intentment,
Went to work and concocted the Fourteenth Amendment;
A man can stand being hung or put in
jail,
Face the guillotine too, without turning pale,
And pleasantly travel the pathway to hell
And plunge in as though without fear
they fell—
But just think, my dear Proc, and you are no novice—
How a Kentuckian feels when he can't hold an office,
Old Spain's inquisition and the racks
there applied
To torture mankind may be thrice multiplied;
Then add gallows and jail and the tortures of hell,
And the figures you get begin scarcely
to tell
The miseries of him whose scale of de-seemment
Is laid down by law in the Fourteenth Amendment.
Not that he cares much for the Yankee blood spit
Or for those he has wounded or those
he has kilt,
But his cup of misery he thinks full enough is,
When he knows he's proscribed and
can never hold office,
Remorse and repentance express but contentment
When compared with the rule in this Fourteenth Amendment.
Why it's sad enough, Proc, when one can't get elected,
It makes him feel sorry, repentant, dejected,
But to say he shan't run—Oh, ye gods!
what contrition
Fills up a man's heart in this awful condition.
Such condition is mine, and it worries
me sore
And pierces my soul to my heart's very core;
And I'm sure when your friends can see how I am grieved
They'll hurry the cakes up and have me
member in prayer
Oh, my country! my country! how I'd like to serve it
In some good fat office, for I know I deserve it;
You may tell your friends too, I'll remember in prayer
Those who in relieving your friend shall take share;
And I'll give you a specimen prayer, by the way,
For fear they may think I don't know how to pray:
Thou ruler of both good and bad,
Look down and bless each friendly Rad,
Who hastens forward with agility
To free Jack Wills of disability,
May pleasure on his pathway shine,
May he be for office never pine,
May he never know defeat,
Unless some Reb can get "B" seat;
May he live one thousand years,
His eyes be never wet with tears,
Except it be with tears of joy,
Of pleasure mixed with no alloy,
And spend his days in sweet contentment,
Free from the damned Fourteenth Amendment.

ANOTHER BOMB

Explodes In Russia—Uncle To the Czar Victim—Coachman Is Also Killed.

Moscow, February 17.—While Grand Duke Sergius was driving today from the Nicholas palace through the Senate quarter his carriage was followed by two cabs. At the Law courts a sleigh in which were to men, one of them dressed as a workingman, went quickly ahead of the Grand Duke's carriage. The sleigh then slowed up to allow the carriage to pass and at that moment a bomb was thrown beneath the carriage. The force of the explosion broke all the windows of the Law courts and the report was heard outside the city. The carriage was blown to pieces, nothing but the four wheels remaining. The horses were not hurt and bolted. The Grand Duke was instantly killed. His head was blown off, actually being separated from his body, which was frightfully mangled. The coachman was also killed. He was so frightfully burned by the explosive with which the bomb was charged that he died while being taken to the hospital. On the arrest of the murderers, neither of whom was known by the police, one of them coolly said:

Startling But True.

People all over the world were horrified on learning of the burning of a Chicago theater in which nearly six hundred people lost their lives, yet more than five times this number, or over 3,000 people died from pneumonia in Chicago during the same year, with scarcely a passing notice. Every one of these cases of pneumonia resulted from a cold and could have been prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A great many who had every reason to fear pneumonia have wanted it off by the prompt use of this remedy. The following is an instance of this sort: "Too much cannot be said in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and especially for colds and influenza. I know that it cured my daughter, Laura, of a severe cold, and I believe saved her life when she was treasured with pneumonia." W. D.

J. Haydon.

JOHN ROCKEFELLER.

The most powerful man in America to-day is John Rockefeller. When it comes to tunneling through mountains of rocks, flooding a nation with poor coal oil, building a mansion of silver with a dome of diamonds and stagnating the commercial interests of the world John Rockefeller towers head and shoulders above anything God Almighty ever allowed to breathe into a lung the air and sunshine of His universe. No other such a juggler of coin can be found in any of the kingdoms of the earth. Measure him with an earthly tape-line and you'll find that he is ten times bigger than a newly-elected member of the Legislature, but, praise God, he hasn't got as much influence in the World Beyond as a departed Christian pauper. He can "bust" up a Burley Tobacco Company, sell cheap coal oil at 20 cents per gallon and build a tabernacle of gold upon God's footstool, but when it comes to lighting a star in the mansions of the skies or polishing a pearl in the Gates of The New Jerusalem his power is as limited as that of a bob-tail jaybird in the swamps of Florida. Indeed, his earthly works are astounding! In less than forty-eight hours he can bring a million people face to face with a terrible wall, and hover a nation with the clouds of civil war. It lies within his power to convert Wall Street New York into a mere hog-patch through the wilderness and build another through the pines of Michigan or the jungles of Africa. He can erect a cabin on the spot where the Bank of England now stands, fill it with Georgia niggers and force the officials to do business from a stone house on top of the Rocky Mountains. But the "thief on the cross" is very much closer to the Great White Throne and the Lowly Nazarine than Johnnie will ever get to be.

Johnnie is marching—marching right on toward the open grave; he is just a man; just an ordinary, every-day sort of a human like all the rest of us. He is riding in his vehicles of wealth, we are trotting the poor man's path; he is whizzing in an automobile o'er spacious thoroughfares through a wilderness of roses; we are trodding the mountain paths through thickets of briars, but each road ends at the same place—the open grave. And the poor fellow who walks off into a hole in the earth with a handful of wild roses is going to have a bigger time in the Sweet Bye and Bye than the fellow who tumbles over into that hole clutching three or four hundred million dollars of money pulled out of the stock exchange of New York City, which originally came from the pockets of the fellows who plow mules through stumpy fields.

One hundred years from now a monument o'er the grave of John Rockefeller will bury its top in a bank of clouds, and above his mouldering dust will be myriads of roses in ears of gold. Out in the potters field the dust of some poor fellow can be found six feet below the roots of a lot of sassafras bushes and blackberry vines. One hundred years from now a man goes to the grave of the towering monument and gathers a handful of dust; he then goes to the grave of the pauper and gets another handful of dust. Analization by the greatest chemists of the world will disclose the fact that they are the same. So after all we will some day be "equals."

But John Rockefeller is a remarkable "earthly" man! He saw where he could make a million or so, then "figured it out." He schemed! That's the secret of his success in raking in the coin. While my daddy was a boy, over here on the banks of the Rolling Fork river trying to catch a ten-pound catfish on a pin hook, and while your daddy was trying to locate a sleeping rabbit in a brush heap, the boy, John Rockefeller, figured out the "coal oil problem" on top of a goods box in a grocery store. Our side of the house after months of fish-in' and huntin' caught the fish and killed the rabbit, and Johnnie's side raked in the millions. But our daddys had more fun in catching a catfish and killing a rabbit than Johnnie had in pipping his coal oil—and that's one consolation.

Nobody blames John Rockefeller for making his first two or three millions. We are all going to do the same thing! But when it comes to monopolizing the earth and the fullness thereof we register a kick.

The Anderson News says that Lawrenceburg now has two Police Judges, one having been elected by the council and the other appointed by the Governor. Competition is the life of trade, and a fellow ought not to have any trouble in getting bargains in the way of fines at Lawrenceburg.

The Harrodsburg Democrat says: "The wonderful similarity in the editorial remarks of many Kentucky changes convinces one of the duality of mind—a kind of patent office mechanism, so to speak."

But the most popular and widely known editorial writer is "Editor Exchange."

A cablegram says that the Emperor of Russia is "seriously considering 'peace'."

Likewise also did the unruly son after his daddy had energetically used a clapboard.

ENGINES SOLD.—The Springfield Roller Mills bought a fifty horse power Olds Gasoline engine last week, and will be installed in few days. The mill company will do away with steam power, believing that more satisfaction can be obtained by the use of gasoline. Mr. D. L. BUTTON IN NOSE.—Little Elizabeth Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Wells, placed a small pearl button in one of her nostrils yesterday morning, which passed into the nasal passage. The mother soon discovered the trouble and sent for a physician, who was unable to locate it. Later in the day the child was taken to the office of Drs. Roberts & Hyatt, where chloroform was administered and another effort made to remove the obstacle without success. Dr. Hyatt informs The Sun that it is very likely the button has passed from the nasal passage and that the child has swallowed it. The nose and the passages leading to the throat were thoroughly explored but no indications of an obstruction were found.

Personal Notes.

Visitors in and Out of Town.—A Round Up of the Week's Personal News.

When You Care for a Girl.

(From Smart Set.)

Geel ain't it funny the things that you do,
An' 'gee, ain't it funny that life seems so new,
An' how yer ambition has suddenly grown,
When you care for a girl.

An' then you don't care to be stayin' out late,
An' your home-goin' always is sober an' straight,
An' your mind's always thinkin' o' Wednesday night's date,
When you care for a girl.

Never before had you owned a clothes-brush,
No longer you say to the married man,
An' you find out how easy it is to talk mush,
When you care for a girl.

My! how you hated to carry 'a shawl!
Now you'd hug bundles all day till you fall;
You even say "Music" when kids start to bawl,
When you care for a girl.

Flowers were things that you'd never prefer,
Now every rosebud reminds you of her,
Yes, things as they are ain't like things as they were,
When you care for a girl.

But things are not all nice in a lump,
When you care for a girl,
There's the Other Fellow buttin' in—
Oh! what a lump!

Into the creek you'd him like to dump
And it matters not how severe was the thump,
When you care for a girl.

To The Business Man.

The Sun would be glad for you to call and see samples of our STATIONERY PRINTING. We are putting out some nice work—work that will "make your business look prosperous." We are prepared to do the best, because we have the latest fashions in type; because we use the best ink; because we carry the best stock. Neatly printed stationery tells a story of progressiveness for the man who uses it. It tells the firm or individual with whom he is corresponding that he is going to have the best of everything; that he is up-to-date; that he is not a subject for the bunco-man.

SOME FIGURES

Which Show How the Tobacco Trust Makes Its Millions—A Profit of Seventy-Five Per Cent Is Realized.

"Neither the producer nor consumer has been the beneficiary of the reduction of the government Spanish war tax of 12 to 6 cents a pound on the manufactured article," remarked E. E. Barton, secretary of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Company to a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter, "for no smoker was that done than the trust advanced its prices on plug made from our Burley and pressed down the price of the natural leaf to 7 cents and less in 1903. They sell wholesale plug manufactured from this Burley at 42 cents to over $1.00 a pound—say an average of 55 to 60 cents a pound. The tobacco did not cost them over 10 cents a pound placed at their factories, which would include the original price paid and cost and handling and transportation. Then they would add a pound of molasses or cheap brown sugar to a pound of tobacco, the two-pound combination costing them about 18 cents allowing liberally for the loss in steaming. The cost of manufacturing, which is a simple process, requiring very little labor or machinery, would be not over 2 cents, making the total cost when ready for market 20 cents. From these figures you can compute approximately the enormous profits they reap and the tax upon the consumer. Before the combination was formed the grower got from 10 to 15 cents a pound for his product, except on occasional years of over production. Play then, with the government tax at 12 cents, was sold by the manufacturers at 28 to 34 cents, content to get a profit of 3 to 4 cents, out of which he made millions, for the consumption is immense. The greatest of pure Burley tobacco in a single crop was 200,000,000 pounds in 1903, but it has been steadily decreasing until 140,000,000 is considered a bumper average annual yield, and this notwithstanding the acreage is increased or nearly always as large. This is due to the fact that tobacco is very exhaustive on the soil, and the yield decreases after the first year or two unless the land is well rested. In many counties the production has fallen off half. When it is grown on high-priced lands it is a costly product counting also the drain upon the soil and cost of growing and putting in condition for shipment in planters' own warehouses. Then we have to take into consideration short crops, destruction from worms and frost. Then to realize only 7 cents a pound is a losing business."

Jno. Rockefeller, Jr.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is a chip of the old block. He has his father's abstemious habits and his habit of giving part of his time and considerable of his money to the advancement of religious and charitable work. He eats thirty cent luncheons and is a total stranger to wines and cigars. He takes long walks, chops wood and indulges moderately in several forms of sport. He is now twenty-seven years of age.

A Better Grade at Home.

(Hartford Herald.)

The fellow who marries a girl through correspondence sometimes finds out, in other matters, that the mail-order business is not what it is represented to be, and that a much better grade of the same article could have been obtained at home.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomachs, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 549 St. Clair ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked, I could not eat, and my stomach was so weak I could not digest. Several of the London hospitals have on their books the names and addresses of many men and women who have undertaken to sell portions of their cure whenever the necessity arises, and it is said that quite a regular traffic is now being done in the buying and selling of human skin. The persons who are willing to sacrifice their flesh for money are by no means confined to the poor and destitute classes—London Mail.

Traffic In Human Skin.

The skin grafting experiments which have been so successful of recent years have led to a new form of livelihood, which is fairly lucrative. Several of the London hospitals have on their books the names and addresses of many men and women who have undertaken to sell portions of their cure whenever the necessity arises, and it is said that quite a regular traffic is now being done in the buying and selling of human skin. The persons who are willing to sacrifice their flesh for money are by no means confined to the poor and destitute classes—London Mail.

JUDGE HOPSON'S

Record As Judge of Appellate Court Is An Excellent One. Figures Which Tell of the Good Work He Has Done.

The Marion Falcon says: When Mr. J. P. Hopson was a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals before the convention that was held in this city in 1898, one of the arguments used by his friends in favor of his nomination was his untiring industry. All who knew him in the practice of his profession conceded that he possessed this qualification, and also agreed that it was a qualification of prime necessity, but some argued that we had elected industrious lawyers who had not made industrious judges and they could point with truth to many instances. They said it was one thing to be industrious in the prosecution of private business, but quite another thing to give the same amount of labor to the duties of an official position.

The Court of Appeals was at that time between two and three years behind the docket, and there was a well founded complaint that such a delay of justice amounted to a denial of it. Since that time the Court of Appeals has been disposing of its business with such dispatch, that at the beginning of the January term, it could be predicted that cases would now be decided within a few months after their submission.

A member of the bar who has some taste for details and investigation has prepared the following tables which show (1) the number of cases decided by all the Judges in a single year (2) the number of cases decided by Judge Hopson in each year (3) the number of cases decided by the Judge most nearly approaching the maximum and (4) the average number decided by each of the six Judges excluding Judge Hobson:

Highest number written by Judge Hopson.....	157
Average rest of court.....	134

It will be seen from the preceding table that at the close of every year Judge Hopson has had a handsome average over his most industrious associates. If this had happened but one or two years, it might be argued that his industry was sporadic, or that the cases assigned to him involved less labor than those assigned to other Judges. The cases are distributed to the Judges by the Clerk of the Court in great numbers without regard to the questions involved.

Not only has the Judge from this Appellate District decided more cases than any Judge from any other district, but he has handled some of the most important matters that have come before the Court. Among these cases the following might be cited:

Taylor vs. Beckham, affirmed by United States Supreme Court, as to office of Governor.
L. & N. R. R. Co. vs. Commonwealth, as to long and short haul clause; affirmed by United States Supreme Court.
Green County vs. Shortell, as to validity of county bonds 25 R. 357.
Carrier county vs. Brooks 25 R. 224, as to act creating new counties.

He also wrote dissenting opinion in Pratt vs. Breckinridge, as to the power of election contest boards, and dissenting opinion in Meyer vs. Weidling, 107 Ky. 691, as to jurisdiction on the Ohio river, and this latter case being appealed, the Supreme Court adopted the view of the dissenting opinion. It is an important matter, both to attorneys and litigants, that all cases should be determined as speedily as possible, and all the Judges of the Court deserve credit for the improved conditions in the Court of Appeals, but it is a special commendation to the people of this district, that their representative on the Court of last resort has been in the largest measure, the means of bringing about the desired result.

Don't Wait Too Long.

(Anderson News.)

Too many people keep the flowers they have plucked for you until the day of your funeral. Their songs of praise are not heard until your procession is passing their door. The mantle of charity does not become public property until put in use by the preacher who conducts the "last sad rites." If a man has flowers for me I want them while I am on earth and can smell their fragrance. They will do me no good sitting at the head of my coffin. The grass that is kept green about my last resting place will be of little avail to me on the other shore. Here is where I need the flowers and the smiles and the praise, not over there. If a fellow who is going to go around to the house after I am gone to see "if he can be of any help" will come suddenly ill in the House shortly before noon to-day. He suffered from intense pains in his body and back and his suffering was excruciating. He was taken from his seat into the Democratic cloak room, where the members of the Kentucky delegation administered to his wants.

FRIENDS ALARMED

About Representative Smith's Condition.—Taken Suddenly Ill While Seated in Congress.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Representative D. H. Smith, of Kentucky, was taken suddenly ill in the House shortly before noon to-day. He suffered from intense pains in his body and back and his suffering was excruciating. He was taken from his seat into the Democratic cloak room, where the members of the Kentucky delegation administered to his wants.

Representative James called a carriage and accompanied the Fourth district Congressman to his apartments at the Riggs House. Physicians were summoned and shortly after 12 o'clock it was announced Mr. Smith was improved.

Mr. Smith attributed his condition to the culmination of a severe cold he has been suffering. It is not believed that there is anything serious in his condition and that his suffering is due entirely to a cold, which can be corrected. Mr. Smith, being one of the House managers of the Swaine trial, will be compelled to be absent now for a short time at least. No member of the House has taken more interest in these proceedings than he and he has insisted upon attending to his duties regularly and faithfully notwithstanding the deep cold he has had.

Representative Smith, of Kentucky, is improving, he is still confined to his bed and is suffering considerably. He is not alarmed over his condition and says he is satisfied it is due to an acute rheumatism attack, superinduced by a deep-seated cold.

A Touching Story

In the saving from death, of the baby girl of Geo. A. Ryler, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious throat trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. At C. J. Haydon's drug store, 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

The mystery of Prince Pishim's gem jewels remains unsolved, though it would seem that the prince hardly needed the kind of advertising that actresses and society persons delight in.

The report of the death of General Kuroki, like that of the demise of Mark Twain, seems to have been "grossly exaggerated."

The death, almost unnoticed of Janus, the greatest artist of her day, is proof of the fleeting character of fame.

Has Hydrophobia.

(Elizabethtown News.)

Mr. Robert Hicks, a well-known citizen living about six miles east of this city developed last Saturday a most violent case of hydrophobia. When not under the influence of medicine it takes two strong men to control him and he has developed all the most revolting symptoms of rabies. Dr. Moberly, who is attending him, says there is no hope of his recovery. Mr. Hicks was bitten on the hand by a mad dog last November. Several of his children were bitten by the same animal but blood was not drawn. Mr. Hicks is a man about forty years old and has a wife and a number of children.

Game Wasn't So Easy.

(Harradburg Herald.)

Mr. Sam Easley, the well known contractor and builder, who moved from the city to Covington about a year ago has filed suit against E. P. Respass and others to recover money lost in their pool room. The plaintiff declares that from March, 1904 to February 7 of this year, he has lost $3,000 betting on race horses in their place. Mr. Easley lived here for a number of years and built the Baptist church and numerous other edifices, and his playing the races is a surprise to many of his friends here. He left here because he secured a contract in Covington to erect a $20,000 school building.

Death In Mercer.

(Harradburg Herald.)

Mr. Joseph Asher died Monday afternoon at his home on Warwick street of pneumonia. His wife, whom he had nursed through an attack of the same dread malady, was convalescing. Just as she began to grow better Mr. Asher was stricken. He was forty-four years of age and besides a wife he leaves five children. The oldest son is now down with pneumonia, and the family is in strained circumstances.

Peculiar Disappearance.

J. D. Rynan, of Butlerville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at C. J. Haydon's drug store, price 50c.

probably are now."

"Where was the ameer's boat when you saw it?" asked Palpak eagerly.

"I cannot say. I drifted all day and half the night before I reached the island. It went in the same direction I drifted."

"They were going to Sileon."

"What is Sileon?"

"The most important port on the Bokharan shore. It is not a Zannuck village."

"We have had you brought here to have a business talk."

large, nor do the people like the ameer. They are for the greater part exiles from Khiva."

"Then they will not fight for the ameer?"

"No, nor against him. They wish only to be let alone."

"How long would it take the boat to reach Sileon?"

"Two days. By this time they are at Sileon, and we could not overtake them as the direct course of the ameer would be in waiting for them, with a guard of his best soldiers."

"Is it not possible that a caravan of rich goods will take advantage of this escort and go to Bokhara?"

"It would be so."

"There would be some delay getting started."

"The ameer's soldiers would be afraid to linger."

"Then what can be done, Palpak?"

"We put the matter into your hands."

"Excellent sir, you promise much. One of you saved my life; the other, a Russian officer, told me that I can take the treasure to my starting place. I am grateful. I will do all I can to assist you in winning back the young woman."

"The road to Bokhara is winding. It runs through what is called the Sileon pass. We are now in what is known as the Kharabagh. A short sail from here is a small village on the coast belonging to my people. By going there and taking the trail over the mountains we can reach the Sileon pass at a point where it will be four days' journey for the caravan. It will take us only three days."

"Good," said Harvey. "What then?"

"The Zannucks have many causes to hate the soldiers of the ameer. They will have fine camels and horses. They will also have many valuables going to Bokhara. If there is to be a wedding of a prince, there will be great feasting and the ameer will distribute gifts. Some of these will be in the caravan. My people will follow me to the Sileon pass."

"By the Kharabagh do you mean the Scythian gulf?" asked Harvey.

"Yes. It is what we call the gulf."

"Then our plan is clear. Orskoff, you and I will go with Palpak in his boat to this village of his people and accompany his warriors to the pass. Send Nekvis to Sileon with all speed. If he finds the caravan there, let him attack and rescue the girls. If the caravan has gone, let him wait there for our return. We must go back to Sileon if we rescue the girls or there will be no way of leaving the coast."

"I will explain the plan to Nekvis," said Orskoff.

Nekvis listened with many misgivings. A Russian officer to release prisoners in this manner and to set foot on forbidden soil for the sake of his superior officer. He could do nothing but obey.

The treasure was placed in Palpak's sailing vessel, and the four robbers with Harvey and Orskoff, the latter fully armed from the stores of the ginsburg, went on board. The ginsburg steamed away for Sileon, and the other boat, with all sail set, started for Palpak's little village.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

Defying the Fire Flood.

Two Baltimore architects have drawn plans for a building entirely without wood. It is to be built for Mr. Hilgenburg, who does not wish to be burned again. It will be six stories and will have a frontage of forty-one feet six inches. The entire structure is to be of reinforced concrete and steel.

Even the doors, trim, window sashes and door jambs are to be of metal. The windows will be glazed with wire glass. The frame for the show windows will be of steel, into which the plate glass will be fitted. The side walls, columns and rear walls, as well as the supporting columns of the front walls, will be of concrete. The floors will all have a top dressing of cement one and a half inches thick.

The stairs will be of concrete, with slate treads and wrought iron balustrades. The elevator shaft will be of concrete, as will also the inclosure around the stairway and the elevator hall. The cellar and roof are to be of cement. In order to eliminate all wood the two dinghies on top of the structure will be of steel. If this mass of metal, stone and cement can be crumpled or destroyed by fire the struggle for an absolutely fireproof structure might as well stop.—Minneapolis Journal.

Life-saving War Dogs.

An interesting demonstration of what dogs trained in ambulance service can do in wartime in aid of the wounded has been seen at Wimbledon, England. Two highly trained dogs, one of them three parts collie and one part Eskimo and the other also collie with the same strain of retriever took part in the exhibition. Round the dogs was strapped a sort of harness bearing the Red Cross badge and fitted with pockets on each side containing triangular bandages, and round the neck hung a key of signals.

The members of the ambulance corps present proceeded to carry out a series of displays in which the dogs found men supposed to be wounded lying on the bench, invisible to the spectators and having found them, gave tongue. The ambulance then picked up the wounded man and completed the first aid which by the dog's help he had been able to give himself. Dogs trained for this purpose are in use in the German service, many being now in Hererodah, west Africa, with the German troops in the field, and there are also many with the Russian army in Manchuria.

A Staunch Merchantman.

The new four masted schooner Mary L. Newhall, which was launched at the New York shipyard, has the distinction of having been built of material originally purchased for a man-of-war. Her frame is of the best live oak and was bought by the United States in 1882 for a warship, but before the vessel was built the war ended and iron ships made their appearance. The timber was sunk in the dock at the Port of New York, and there it remained until about two years ago, when the builders of the vessel secured the timber and the schooner was built of fat bags and a fat cow.

Rhinoceros Butte Train.

A collision recently occurred on the Equatorial railway, British East Africa, that would be possible nowhere else on earth. A huge bull rhinoceros rushed out of the bush and charged at full speed the so-called "rhino" train, which was slowing down as it approached the station Sultan Hapond, 218 miles from Mombasa. The train was stopped, and the "rhino" was discovered about 100 yards down the track. Slowly he returned to the jungle and the train started on its way. The rhino was unhurt, but the pieces of his thick skin were found adhering to the train, but the fierceness of his assault made it a pleasant feeling and a slight smile if possible when in a barber's chair for the purpose of being shaved. When the face is in a snail and the muscles are relaxed it is very much easier for the barber to run over it with a razor. This is especially applicable to persons who have a tough and wiry beard.—Washington Star.

A Careless Custom.

A most curious trade has sprung up lately which illustrates quaintly the pet vanity of woman. It appears that ladies when staying at hotels or the like do not care to exhibit to the passers along the corridors the exact size of their feet, so they carefully carry with them a couple of pairs of tiny, delicate shoes, which instead of the ones they are wearing they place outside their doors for the servants to take down and clean. All the big boot shops of Paris now make a specialty of this tiny footwear, and a pair or two form a portion of the trousseau of every up-to-date bride. Madrid ladies are said to have the smallest feet. Pervian ladies come next, and American girls are a good third.

Mr. Krueger's Fortune.

The value of the fortune left by the late Mr. Krueger amounts to no less than $750,000. In addition to the $250,000 bequeathed to various societies in Holland, the ex-president has left sums to all the funds opened after the South African war for the support of the widows and orphans of Boers who lost their lives. He has also made bequests for the maintenance of the Dutch language.—London Mail.

A Legal Knot.

A curious question has arisen in the Maine courts. Last winter several important cases were tried at the January session for Antisepic county, and marked "law court." Immediately after the term ended the court stenographer died, and no one can be found who can recall the cases, because of his peculiar system of shorthand. Must they be retried, and if so, at whose expense?

"Always maintain a pleasant feeling and a slight smile if possible when in a barber's chair for the purpose of being shaved.
